Rachel McDaniel is a magna cum laude graduate of Fairleigh Dickinson University (FDU), and received additional university honors for her participation in FDU's honors program where she wrote the peer reviewed thesis "Non-traditional Students: How Technology is Changing Traditional Education."

Rachel has over 10 years of legal and leadership experience, developed precise and dependable skills for eliminating inefficiencies, cross-purposes, unnecessary costs and miscommunication — and how businesses can retool for a sleeker, smoother, strategically focused organization.

As a paralegal who has quickly built a successful career path, Rachel assisted several high ranking lawyers in Center City, Philadelphia with every stage of the litigation process. She has held two previous paralegal positions with two well-respected major firms in Philadelphia. Each gave her the opportunity to acquire skills in the new fields of eDiscovery and eFiling. Rachel received comprehensive e-filing training at the United States District Court Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

Some of her most notable achievements included assisting attorneys on high profile cases involving pharmaceutical giants such as Johnson and Johnson, GlaxoSmithKline, and Bard with multiple district litigation plaintiffs, regional health systems and various doctors with single plaintiffs. These cases resulted in multi-million dollar verdicts or settlements. She cofounded the company MAM Legal in 2018 which provides a variety of legal services to a diverse client base. Currently, Mrs. McDaniel is utilizing her skills to aid with the opioid crisis by conducting legislation research for national advocacy purposes.
